evitable, but Prince von Buelow succeeded in averting it and the negotiations were taken up afresh. Signor Sonnino stated that the minimum of Italian demands included, in addition to the clause concerning Serbia, cession by Austria of the entire province of Trent and of Istria, with Triest and Pola, and also a certain number of the Dalmatian islands.

Austria then suggested a cession of a part of the province of Trent and certain other territory, excluding Pola and Triest. The latter city, under this arrangement, was to be transformed into a free town under Austrian suzerainty. Italy definitely refused these proposals. London, April 29.—British women who waited a week at Tilbury for an opportunity to cross to Holland had their hopes raised to-day by a report that traffic would be recommenced to-night. They therefore cancelled all engagements to attend meetings to-day. Their hopes, however, were later dashed by the news that the shipping prohibition would remain in effect until May I at the earliest. Even then some of the delegations plan to go.

A new suggestion is to persuade the American delegates, particularly Miss Jane Addams, to come to England and awaken public opinion on behalf of the cause. So far Miss Addams has given no decision regarding the invitation which has already been sent to her, but the British committee has all arrangements made for her to epeak in London, even though it will be possible for her to remain only a few hours.

ALLIES LAND WHILE TURKSATTACK DONKEYS

London, April 29 .- "The Daily News" correspondent, Hugh Martin, in a dispatch from Tenedos, says that one of the Allies' landings on the Gallipoli Peninsula was made as the result of a clever and comic ruse. Covered by a vigorous fire from the British ships, nearly a thousand donkeys with dummy baggage and mounted guns were put ashore at a certain spot. The Germans and the Turks at once diverted a strong force in this direction. Meanwhile the real landing force easily accomplished its purpose some distance up the coast. between the Austrian Uzsok aummit and those operating near Orosh and Pataka.

The seizure of Loubnia gives the Russian artillery an opportunity of commanding a part of this railroad line and virtually disqualifying it from further service.

The furious Austrian efforts to retake this village culminated the night of April 26 and the morning of April 27, when they reached the Russian positions, but they were forced after a hand-to-hand encounter to retire.

The Russian authorities report that in this region, as well as at Lupkow and Stry, the Austrian troops were flot assisted by the Germans, who are said to be concentrating at Cracow and in Western Galicia. For reinforcements the Austrians had to rely upon their own troops from Bukowina and upon men of the Landsturm from the Italian border.
